

A COMMUNITY CONCERN

A documentary giving visibility to the power of organizing to improve urban public schools. The spirit, passion and commitment on view shows that when groups work together, they are successful.

It brings together stories of people in the Bronx, NY, Oakland, CA, and Boston, MA, who face different challenges, but share similar goals.

"...a wonderful window onto the world of community organizing....shows the powerful things that people with can accomplish when they work together...I found it nothing less than inspiring." Anne T. Henderson, Co-founder of National Coalition for Parent Involvement in Education

"Your documentary touched my heart as an organizer. It was extremely powerful and highlighted the substance of our work." (Chris Ballard, PICO California)

Visit our website at: <http://www.communityconcern.org/>